A GENUINE
ACCOUNT
NOVA SCOTIA.

NOVA SCOTIA is the most northerly, and easterly Province of all the English Range on the Continent, and consequently, the nearest to Europe.

It was called Nova Scotia by Sir William Alexander, Secretary of State for Scotland, under King James I. and afterwards created Earl of Stirling. By Means of Sir Firdinando Gorge, President of the New-England or Plymouth Company, he obtained a Royal Grant for this Tract in 1621. When the French got Possession of it, they called it L'Accadie, in Allusion to Arcadia in the Grecian Peloponnesus; but with what Propriety I cannot pretend to determine.

A very exact geographical Description of a rude uncultivated Country is not to be expected: But the Boundaries of this are not difficult to settle, as it is on three Sides surrounded by the River of St. Laurence, the Gulph of the same Name, the Gut of Canso Cape Sable Shore on the Atlantick Ocean, and the Bay of Fundy. The Division from New-England has been sometimes laid down by the Course of St. John's River, which rising from the Lady Mountains, at no great Distance from the River of St. Lau- rence, has a long south-easterly Course into the Bay of Fundy. But a late Order of Council fixes the Boundary at the River of Holy Cross, which falls into the Bay more on the South.

Nova Scotia extends betwixt 60 and 66 Degrees West Longitude from London, and $41\frac{1}{2}$ and $49\frac{1}{2}$ Latitude North. Annapolis Royal, at present the only Fortrefs in the Country, stands in Lat. almost 44 Degrees 40 M. West Long. about 65. The south-eastern Part is a large Peninsula, extending from South-west to North-east, and joined to the Main-land by an Isthmus a little above the Gut of Canso.

The French, since the Property of this Country has been vested in the English, affect to confine the Name of Acadia to the Peninsula only: But their own Maps made before the Cession of this Province, give it the Limits we have now assigned. I will add, that the Words of the Treaty do not contract it within narrower Limits than were before allowed to Arcadia.

According to this Description, Nova Scotia will be found to contain about 420 Miles in Length, and 380 in Breadth; which is an Extent of Land much larger than that of Old Scotland, or North Britain.

As to the Climate, it is not, indeed, so agreeable as in the southern Pars of France, tho' situated in the same Degrees of Latitude, because it is subject to severe Colds, and thick Fogs; but it would certainly grow better and better every Day, in Proportion as the Woods are cut down, and the Country cleared and improved; and when the Country to the North of it comes to be a little inhabited and cleared, it may, perhaps, become one of the pleafantest Spots upon the Globe; for, according to Charlevoix's Account count, there is not a Country in the World of its Extent, where we meet with finer natural Harbours, or which more abundantly produceth all the Conveniencies of Life. In Confirmation of which he says, that near the Harbour of La Haive, one single Grain of Wheat produced 150 pretty Ears of Corn, and each of them so loaded with Grain, that they were forced to inclose all the Ears in a Ring of Iron, and support them by a Pole; and that near the same Place there was a Field of Wheat, where every Grain of the Seed, even those that produced the least, put forth eight Stalks, every one of which had an Ear of at least half a Foot long. In short, says he, there is no where to be seen more beautiful Forests, or Forests that produce Timber more proper for the Building of Ships. And besides these Advantages, which are to be met with on the Surface, there are, 'tis said, in the Bowels of this Peninsula, several Mines of Copper and of Coal; but as they have great Plenty of Wood for firing, they have no Occasion to search or dig for the latter, and 'till the Country is fully inhabited, they can make no Use of the former.

Then as to that Sort of Provisions, which may be got without any Industry, no Country in the World abounds more than this. In their Forests there is an infinite Number of wild Beasts, such as Beavers, Elks, Bears, Otters, and Hares; and of wild Fowl, such as Bustards, or wild Turkeys, Partridges, Ducks, Teal, &c. and their Rivers swarm with all Sorts of Fresh-Water Fish, particularly Salmon and Trout; but what is of the greatest Consequence, is the rich Fishery upon the Coast, which abounds with Cod, Makarel, Herrings, Pilchards, Sturgeon, and several other Sorts of Fish, beside great Numbers of Sea-calves and Whales; and this Fishery might be the more easily carried on, because the Coast is full of natural Harbours, many of which are fit for receiving the largest Vessels, and might be easily fortified.

Nova Scotia has many Rivers, some of them now navigated for a long Course by the Natives. But for Bays, Harbours, and convenient Creeks, it is inferior to no Country in the known World. The Cape Sable Shore, which lies next to the fishing Banks, is peculiarly happy in this Respect.

The Bay of Chebueto, and the River that falls into it, bid fair, in the Opinion of some, to become, in time, the principal Port of Nova Scotia, and the Seat of its Metropolis. There is, over Land, good Communication by Wheel-carriage with the Bay of Minas, at present the chief Settlement of the French, with the Rivers of Cobaquid and Pisaquid, and the best easterly Parts of the Province. It is true, Annapolis Royal lies upon a fine Bason, and is more commodious for large inland Vent and Consumption: But the Country round it is bad, and the Tides of the Bay of Fundy render the Navigation difficult.

Upon the opposite, or westerly Shore of the Bay of Fundy, are the Rivers of Pasamaquady and Holy Cross, being about 17 Leagues N. W. from the Gut or Entrance of the Bason of Annapolis. The River of Holy Cross, or St. Croix, (as the French call it) was the old Boundary laid down betwixt Nova Scotia Government and Sagadobock, formerly the Duke of York's Property, but now annexed to the New England Government of Massachusetts's Bay.

Further northward, upon this Shore is the River of St. John, 10 Leagues distant from the Gut of Annapolis. This is a very useful River, of long Course and has a considerable Tribe of the Abnaki Indians settled upon it: But they are at present, from the Neglect of the Nova Scotia Government, in the Interest of the Canadian French. There are prodigious Falls of Tides in this River, near its Mouth, of not less than 30 Fathom; not properly Cataracts occasioned by a Course over Rocks, but the Effect of the great Head of Water above, the Channel being here pent up betwixt two steep Mountains. By this River, and the Help of some Land-carriage, there is a Communication with the River of St. Laurence, and a-cross that with Quebeck, the Metropolis of Canada.

More Northerly is Cape Doré, or Gilt Cape, about 30 Leagues from Annapolis. Here is plenty of mineral Coal for Firing, which must be esteemed a very great natural Advantage. Some Years ago a Company was set on Foot in New England, in order to work these Mines: But tho' that Project was soon dropped with Loss, a better Use will, doubtless, be made of this Treasure, when Nova Scotia itself comes to be inhabited. About the same Cape are some slender Veins of Copper Ore, some thin Laminæ of Virgin Copper, and a Gold Sulphur Marcasite.

Upon the Easterly Shore, or Gulph of St. Laurence, after we are past the Point, is the Gut of Canso, and a short and safe Passage from the British Settlements to Canada River, and to all the other Ports of Nova Scotia on this Gulph. This Gut is six Leagues long, and only one League broad: The Navigation of it is very good, as appears from the Journals of Captain Gayton, who passed it in 1746, on a Cruize to Green Bay.

Twenty-five Leagues beyond the Gut is Tamaganabou, a considerable District or Settlement of the Nova-Scotians, and a good Road for Vessels.

Green Bay, or Bay Verte, lies 14 Leagues farther, and is shallow Water. This is the Landing-place from Canada, where Disturbance from the French is chiefly to be apprehended, and ought peculiarly to be guarded against in the Settlement of Nova Scotia. There are only four Miles Land-carriage from this Bay to Cbignecto River, which runs by the French Town of the same Name into the opposite Bay, dividing the Isthmus in the narrowest Part. It is proper here to take Notice, that on the side of Cbignecto Bay the Tide flows 11 Fathom: But on the Gulph of St. Laurence, or Green Bay Side, the Swell is not above 4 or 5 Feet.

Farther upwards, before we reach Isle Bonaventure and Isle Perce; where the French, by the Treaty of Utrecht, have a right to cure and dry Cod-fish, we come to Miramichi Port, at the Mouth of a long River of the same Name, where I do not find any Settlement. There are some other small Bays betwixt this and that of Cbaleurs (so called by the French) which runs a great way into the Land, and has a small Island at the Bottom of it, besides several others near the Entrance. Then proceeding towards the River of St. Laurence, below the South Entrance of that River, lies the Bay of Gaspé, which is a deep and good Harbour. Here the French, contrary to Treaty, have continued to carry on their Fishery, and pretend to assume to themselves a Right over the Country behind it, which they distinguish in their modern Maps by the Name of Gaspésie. This Name they do indeed sometimes times extend so far, as to take off the greatest Part of Nova Scotia, and leave us little, if any thing, more under the Title of Accadie, than the Peninsula before-mentioned. Such a Paper Encroachment, if not well-attended to, may, in time, be construed into a sort of Claim by Prescription: But as this Province is now thought worthy the Regard of the Administration *, it is to be hoped the true and ancient Limits of it will be properly asserted: For tho' we may not suddenly settle more of it than the Peninsula, yet an Indulgence to our Rivals, in the other Parts, will be a great Check to the Industry of our new Colonians.

Nova Scotia is at present divided into ten or twelve Districts. Each District annually chuses one Deputy to be approved by the Commander and Council at Annapolis: He is a sort of Agent for his Countrymen, the French, in that District, and reports the State of it from Time to Time; but in what Manner we need not be at a Loss to determine. There is, in Fact, no Civil Power, either legislative or executive. The French Missionaries, who are not only appointed by the Bishop of Quebeck, but absolutely under his Direction in their several Districts and Villages, act as the sole Magistrates or Justices of the Peace: But all Complaints may, if the Parties think proper, be brought before the Commander in Chief and Council at Annapolis: A Liberty, which, if we consider the State of these People, and their Prejudices to the English, we may be certain is not often made Use of.

Sable Island, as it lies within the Latitude of the Cape Sable Shore, must be deemed within the Jurisdiction of the Province of Nova Scotia. It is 35 Leagues S. E. from Canso to the Middle of this Island, which lies low, with small rising Elevations of Sand, called Downs. The Form of it is like an Arm bent, the hollow Part towards the N. E. The Bite to the Northwards is about 20 Miles in Length, and narrow. By reason of Shoals of Sand, small Tides of only five or 6 Feet, and a great Surf, it is inaccessible, except in this Bite, where Boats may land. It has been fatal to Ships, and formerly some People of Humanity put Cattle a-shore to breed on it, for the Relief of those, who might have the Misfortune to be there cast away. These Cattle, by multiplying apace, fully answered, for some Time, that Benevolent and Christian Purpose: But at last, some wicked People from the New England Continent, guided by the most brutal Motives, fitted out an Expedition against the poor Animals, and destroy'd the whole Race of them, for the Lucre of their Hides and Tallow.

There are on this Island abundance of Foxes and Seals, and some Pieces of standing Water. The Snows fall heavily here in the Winter, but lie not long on the Ground.

To this Account we shall add the following Passage from the Old England Journalist, who, after applauding the Scheme, now going to be executed, of settling Nova Scotia, and erecting a Civil Government there; shewing the terrible Consequences of a Military Government, and severely condemning the iniquitous Practices of such as would make a Private Jobb of every laudable Undertaking for the Publick Good; goes on thus:

WE are not to forget, that these new Adventurers will be altogether free from the Difficulties, Difficulties; which usually attend others in the like Circumstances. They are not going in search of an unknown Country to settle in: No new Seas to explore, or untrodden Climates to risk their Healths in: No Inhabitants to fight with and drive away; and very little, if any, Uncertainty to encounter with. On the contrary, they set out for a Country long since discovered, well known, and familiar to many among us, within the moderate Distance of six Weeks sail from London; in a great measure settled and peopled already with Europeans, to the Number of 7 or 8000, and consequently improved in some Proportion: A wholesome Climate, well agreeing with a British Constitution; abounding with all Necessaries of Life, the Seas and Rivers with Stores of excellent Fish, and the Woods with Plenty of winged Creatures and Quadrupedes fit for the Table: The Soil very capable of Improvement, insomuch, that the Husbandman and the Fisherman may well vie with one another for Success in their respective Vocations, and set their Industry in Competition, to attain a grateful Retreat for the Decline of Life.

'Tis true, the present Nova-Scotians (except the Garison of Annapolis, and a few Miles about that Town) are Descendants of those French Inhabitants, who became subject to the British Crown, when that Country was ceded to us by the Peace of Utrecht. This, with their being profess'd Roman Catholics, inclines them of Course to the Interest of France, which they have adhered to from the Beginning, and assisted in all Enterprizes upon that Country. They joined in their late Destruction of Canso, and likewise in an unsuccessful Siege of Annapolis. They corresponded with the Gallo-Bretons at Louisbourg, and transported their Cattle to them, which rendered Provisions very dear at Annapolis and Canjo.

As they are naturally attached to our Enemies, they will of Course espouse their Cause, and take every Opportunity to join them, and support their Interest. This is the only Inconvenience, that, in all Appearance, will affect our own People ; and is really so great as to require the Interposition and Wisdom of the Legislature to remedy. The uncharitableness of their Religion, and the Craftiness of their Priests, will, I doubt, render a Coalition impracticable ; more especially, as Cape Breton is so near, which, while it continues French, will always encourage them to keep up a Spirit of Opposition and Dislike. To dispossess them would not, perhaps, be so unjust as unpolitick ; for those who forfeit their Allegiance, forfeit the Protection of the Government they are under ; and if they act as Enemies, they ought to be treated as such : But the Mischief of dispossessing them, is, that it would be an unpopular Transaction, and against the Faith of Treaties, and must inevitably embroil us with France, who undoubtedly have a Right to succour them, in Virtue of the Treaty of Utrecht. But that is not all ; for as the Country wants Inhabitants, the Loss of so many would become in a manner irreparable, as a Country is reckon'd wealthy in Proportion to the Number of the People.

This is a very nice Affair, and requires deliberate Attention. Varieties of Religions are productive of various Evils, Dislike, Murmur, Enmity and Malice ; and yet we find the Pensylvanians live in great Amity together, notwithstanding their various Ways of Worship, and the Professions of all the Religions in Europe among them.

them. These People entertain a laudable and religious Charity towards one another, and consider, that tho' they differ in Form, they are all in Motion towards the same Point; and who worships in Sincerity in any Way whatsoever, is esteemed a good Man and honest Neighbour. If it were practicable to bring over the Gallo-Scotians into a Sensibility of universal Charity in Religion, like the wise People of Pensylvania, and to entertain a good Opinion of British Government, Nova Scotia would become altogether as happy, But how to effect it, is the great Point to be considered. I own I despair of Success, as well from the Tenets of their Religion, and their natural Propension to France, as from the Vicinity of the French Garison at Cape Breton, which will always countenance and support their Separation: But however if they continue untractable and carry on an illicit Commerce and Correspondence with their Countrymen, so as to disturb or prejudice the Peace and Welfare of the Colony, I see no Reason why they should not be put under the Restraint of such Laws, as may reduce them into proper Obedience, and the Condition of Hewers of Wood and Drawers of Water, under the natural Subjects of the Mother-Country.

As, from the Civil Government which is to be established, I have a high Opinion of the Undertaking in Agitation, I shall appropriate a competent Number of my Eyes * to watch over and guard it against Jobbers of all Kinds; and as long as old Argus writes, it shall never want a Friend to detect and expose their Practices.
